STECK!

Instead of spending Schubert money in "advertising," and in the "purchase of parlor Grand Influence," Steck & Co. expend their energies upon the grave duty of placing an honest amount of worth in every quality of material and workmanship, thereby meeting every purchaser's expectations in value obtained for money. The wisdom of this policy has been fully apparent to the fact that they now have been here for a less time months to supply the great demand for their instruments. Every note is a perfect guarantee and a warranty of many years, sold only by Steck Dealers, the Nation.

Worth Reading.

R. ODDEN DORRETS, M. D., LL.D., Professor of Chemistry and Toxicology in Bellevue Hospital Medical College; Professor of Chemistry and Physics in College of the City of New York; Chemist of the Metropolitan Sewing Machine Company.

Dear Sir: . . . I had the pleasure of discussing these matters with the members of the National Board of Health in Washington. I showed them your sulphurous hydrocarbon, the Comocrine, with its immense flow of a solution of chloride of zinc. I explained how this power for evaporative cold would be used, in consequence of a discovery of a cheap method for producing this substance, by the distinguished chemist, Dr. S. J. Metzler, Jr. Also how the power which escapes during the use of the superheated air incorporated in the formed vapor discharged at the same time; how that steam superheated to 600 degrees Fahr. shows that thereof is more active as an antiseptic than carbolic acid.

Your Comocrine has unquestionably great interest attaching and built to many homes in New York, Chicago, and Cincinnati, where thousands of these instruments have been in constant use. But I congratulate you that the most just gratification, as well as the public, are giving you such hearty support. Yours, cordially,

R. ODDEN DORRETS.

CAMELBACK CONGRESS.

THE SUNDAY SESSION OF SENATE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 16.—[Special.] Senator Cullom is working very earnestly upon his committees. He evidently means to have that for one agent from Illinois. He remains to announce them next Monday. He says that no one will positively know what the committees are to be until they are announced, and that if there is a possible combination it will be the result of a breach of faith. The chief of these who will be able to give any definite information is very serious. It is openly charged in the cloak, Cadets, and Senate Restaurant, where nothing about one of the important committees is known. This is the Committee on Territories, and it is suspected that the new Senator from Idaho will be the chairman. The Democratic Senators will not be heard of again except to be dismissed. The Democratic caucus will not meet until after Christmas, and there seems to have been created in such a shabby manner by the Department of Justice that it is now doubtful whether the caucus is really desirable, if the Democrats make good their promises, the Department of Justice will have enough to do to defend such officers wrongly as to prosecute anybody.

SENATE'S APPROPRIATIONS.

The Senate will take up the Senate bill to appropriate $100,000 to pay the claims of certain citizens of Tennessee, for the destruction of their property during the late war. The bill is supported by the whole delegation in Congress.

SUNDAY SESSIONS.

The Democrats were the originators of the Sunday session here, the understanding of the two governing committees, but "old Bourbon" is not disposed to go.

CARLISLE'S CAUCUS SCORE.

Senator Voorhees will probably lead a fight on the tariff policy of the present administration in the Senate, but he will be brought to it much in a good deal of floundering in the dark. He thought the tariff policy should be settled by the Congressional Committee of Ways and Means before caucus should take action. Senator Carlisle, however, thought that the caucus should first determine what the policy should be, and then the Committee of Ways and Means should be instructed to carry out the caucus decision. Senator Voorhees is very earnest. It is openly charged that Senator Beck will be the result of a combination to put him in the Senate, and that there is a possible combination to put Beck in the Senate

PRESIDENTIAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—[Special.]—There was much more discussion of the prospects of the different Presidential candidates at the meeting of the Executive National Committee than there appeared upon the surface. Senator Booth, of the Cincinnati district, was here, to represent Governor Foraker, who was anxious that Arthur should not secure the delegation of his State to the convention, and would not carry the State if he should be nominated. Whatever may have been the authority for the statement of Mr. Booth, Governor Foraker gave expression to that opinion to several members of the committee during and since the convention meeting, and while Arthur would not secure that vote from the delegation from the State of Ohio, he would become a candidate for the Presidency from that State, and that if he should be nominated Governor Foraker would not support the ticket. The statement of Governor Foraker was made upon the authority of Mr. Sherman, and it was generally understood that Governor Foraker would be a candidate for the Presidency himself. Although nothing is left for publication upon the subject, it is understood that Arthur's hold upon the delegation from New York will be shaken if Governor Cornell is not nominated for Governor, and that Governor Foraker will Vatican Dispatches state that Queen Victoria called for O'Donnell's pardon.

Commissioner Lamar, of Land, contemplates retiring from public life in order to devote himself to literature.

D. A. Drury, a rice manufacturer at Savannah, Ga., has failed for $50,000. The assets are said to be worth $70,000.

A number of American wheat, the Odessa Gazette has been refused admission into Austria-Hungary, but has been admitted at Lemberg, in Galicia.

A new German Evangelical Church was dedicated yesterday at the corner of Forty-sixth and South Dearborn streets, in the Town of Lake.

To-day has O'Donnell, the avenger, was free and determined. He said he was prepared to meet death, and added that he knew it would be prompt.

The Rev. Morton Stone, of Philadelphia, was yesterday installed as assistant to the Rev. Dr. Vibbert, pastor of St. Paul Episcopal Church in this city.

Baron Fava's departure from Vienna for Dublin has been postponed owing to financial difficulties. The Pope Prophet may get to Dublin before the Englishman.

Hamburg, a Commune of Prince of Vienna, Austria, was murdered in a suburb of that city Saturday night. It is thought that the crime was committed by anarchists to revenge for Rudowitz's espionage at their meetings.

Fire arrests were made in Rainville, Tenn., yesterday under the State Sunday law at the instigation of the saloonkeepers. Their purpose is to demonstrate that the law cannot be enforced without greatly inconveniencing all classes.

The people in the neighborhood of Santa Fé, New Mexico, complain that the Navajo Indians are stealing their cattle, and threaten to resent by shooting the Lynch law if the practice is persevered in and the authorities should refuse to interfere.

Pope Leo has approved the erection of a church at Gallstown, in honor of O'Donnell, who was born in that place. He will give a subscription, and will appreciate your distinguished co-religionist, probably Archbishop Croke, to lay it.

Samuel Sansom, the Post's correspondent, has held a conference with the Navajo representatives at the Vatican in reference to the Grover Prince's visit. The Mayor of Rome has issued a proclamation welcoming the Prince to the Eternal City and requesting him to regard the greeting as the homage of all Italians.

Father Geary, a Roman Catholic priest of Dayton, O., in a letter to Archbishop Elder of Cincinnati, suggests a contribution of 50 per head on an average among the Catholics of the Ohio Archdiocese, and to each per head to all the other dioceses of America, to pay off the Parnell debt. He intimates that one Catholic gentleman of Cincinnati, supposed to be Mr. Anthony Hyttinger, stands ready to subscribe half a million dollars for the purpose.

The Bremer Bulletin of Bremen has purchased "one of the most interesting and valuable pieces of battle-ground in all Britain," which was the purpose to make the last resting-place of his sacred bodies. Mr. Stanley Crawford, the multimillionaire railroad king, who died some months ago. The cost was $100,000. He has also invited plans for a mausoleum of classic style for the lot from the first architects of Europe. This is to be erected regardless of cost. It is thought that the Duchess is acting in this matter as much through a desire to annoy the relatives of her dear husband as through esteem and affection for the corpse.

The attempt of the employés of the Pittsburg, Cleveland & Toledo Railroad to fill a track over some disputed ground at Youngstown, O., yesterday morning led to a free-for-all fight, resulting in broken heads and noses and much noise. The employés of the private fleet whose property rights were affected resisted the railroad people, but got the worst of it. The track was laid.

Commodore Ramsay, of London, died at Washington yesterday morning after a somewhat prolonged illness, brought on, it is thought, by overexertion in the last session of Congress, when he was the leader of the opposition to this opposition to the Tariff bill. Representative Hatch and Ryan of Kansas, Kasson of Iowa, Reese of Missouri, Hooker of Indiana, and La Fever of Ohio, have been appointed a Congressional Committee to accompany the remains to Lawrence, Kan.

The Assembly Auction Rooms, with arrival of Universal yesterday, was seized by the London police, as it was suspected that a number of men were on board who would, if permitted, make an effort to secure O'Donnell or such enough to enabling some of the officials who prosecuted him. The detectives were about to search the passengers, but a number of Americans on board made such angry statements that they desisted. The detectives now claim to have discovered the terrible avengers of O'Donnell's death. All the passengers were held, however, until after O'Donnell's execution this morning.

Mr. Justin McCarthy, of London, is now in Cleveland, O., in connection with the suit which he has brought against Lewis, Edes & Lockington, as trustees of the New York, Pennsylvania & Ohio Railroad, for breach of trust. Mr. McCarthy talks freely and strongly about the manner in which, as he alleges, he has been swindled by the parties referred to. He also charges them with being the agents of the Erie Road in wrecking the affairs of the Green Western Road, for the controversial which he (McCarthy) claims to have provided all the money. Mr. McCarthy incidentally remarks that the conduct of the managers of the Erie Road and of American railroad managers generally towards foreigners who invest capital in enterprises in this country is not calculated to inspire confidence or to appreciate the value of American securities in foreign markets.

Mr. James Russell Lowell, the American Minister to London, has invented the displacement of the employés of the Metropolitan Underground Railway because he refused to take an illegal vote, but another that the dynamite explosion, by which a few of them were left some time ago, was the work of American Fenians. Mr. Lowell went so far as to refuse to forward the resentful of the employés in regard to the matter to the American Government, on the ground that there was not a particle of evidence to bear out the assertions contained in it implicating American citizens. The employés here not been at all pleased at Mr. Lowell's refusal to see things as they do, and in a long-winded remonstrance, or letter, argue to their very satisfaction at least that he should be thoroughly confident that none but American Fenians could be guilty of a dynamite explosion. The employés threaten vigorous action if Mr. Lowell has more confidence in Irish statements and unless the American Government puts a stop to the manufacture of infernal machines by a Philadelphia firm, Mr. Lowell is rather unfortunate. He fails to please the Fenians, and is certainly less well pleased the Britishers, because he refuses to believe that there are not more dynamiters in London than Inspector Wolf who are not Americans or Fenians.

O'DONNELL THE AVENGER.

[1] In probably that O'Donnell, the slayer of Carey, has met his death on the gallows in Newgate Jail before the present issue of THE TRIBUNE can be mailed to readers, as his doom was fixed at 8 a. m., Londontime. The justice of his sons, so far as he is concerned, is now appealed to the highest of all tribunals; but there will be a revision of the popular verdict by the practical reversal of the infernal deliver signedly it was legal to secure his acquittal in the English court. Henceforth there will be no pretense that to Clint the inhuman informer is anti-dotum. The in-existence of that plea overthrows argument; from this time on it will be assailed by the very men who urged it in O'Donnell's behalf. The Irish Nationalists will hereafter insist with jig and unanimity that O'Donnell was an avenger of the treacherous dastard and a martyr to the Irish cause.

In contemplating O'Donnell's fate from this point of view, both the Irish and the English will be better satisfied than if there remained any doubt about his deliberation in the killing of Carey. On the one hand, the English Government will feel able to justify its course in the eyes of the law when it is acknowledged that O'Donnell did not act upon the defensive nor even upon a sudden impulse, but pursued the deliberate and did this to avenge the Irish cause. However much O'Donnell's act may be condemned from a remitted standpoint, there-ments and courts cannot afford to extend immunity to deliberate homicides. On the other hand, the men who applaud O'Donnell and glorify the courage and devotion to the Irish national cause which served him are to a man satisfied that there was no taint of cowardice or meanness in the motive which prompted the deed. Moreover such

The Chicago & Evanston Railroad Company's Tunnel Through the City Council.

The Ordinance Defeated at $100,000, Inclosure of Defeated Ordinances Made Easy.

A Sharp Competition of the Tunnel Ordinance with That of 1875—The Bonus Exchanges Now Freely.

There appeared to one of the city editors of Tuesday a letter signed "Chicago & Evanston Railroad," written on heavy note paper, and containing the following communication:

[illegible]

Now, in the first place, the chief objection that the Tribune made to the ordinance was to the provision in the ordinance of September under the city. As has been pointed out to the citizens who have not the means to pay this is a grant to the company to run trains under the business part of the city, with no provision as to when they are to begin, or when they are to end. There is no guarantee of service to the part of the city that does not have it. There is no guarantee that they will not run their trains only during the busiest hours of the day, and not run them at all during the dull hours. There is no guarantee that they will not run their trains only during the busiest hours of the day, and not run them at all during the dull hours. There is no guarantee that they will not run their trains only during the busiest hours of the day, and not run them at all during the dull hours.

[illegible]

But the fact is that the two ordinances, compared with each other, are very much alike. The ordinance of 1875 was the result of a long and careful consideration by the committee on railroads, and was drawn with the greatest care. The ordinance of 1892 was drawn in a hurry, and was passed in a hurry. The ordinance of 1875 was drawn with the greatest care. The ordinance of 1892 was drawn in a hurry, and was passed in a hurry.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Canadian Independence or Annexation.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—[Editor of The Tribune.] I have read with much interest your many articles on Canadian annexation or independence. They seem to me to be in accordance with the true spirit of the people, and I am glad to see that you are taking such a stand. The annexation of Canada to the United States would be a great benefit to both countries, and I hope that the time will soon come when it will be accomplished. The people of Canada are a fine, intelligent, and progressive people, and they would make excellent citizens of the United States. The annexation of Canada would also be a great benefit to the United States, as it would give us a large territory, and a great deal of wealth. The annexation of Canada would be a great benefit to both countries, and I hope that the time will soon come when it will be accomplished.

IN GENERAL.

William Bartels, the manufacturer of cream several awnings, on Fifth avenue, says he is not the man who committed suicide recently.

The Fourth-West Land League will hold meeting to the hall at No. 110 Twenty-second street. The attendance was very small, however, and but little interest was manifested, and little have the attention for that who are the many displayed at home and dead. Improve are no exception to this rule.

The Central Labor Club, organized a week ago, held its first regular meeting at No. 57 Sixth (sixth street) yesterday. The meeting was not to have an organization, but adopted, about the necessary by-laws, and the club adjourned until Dec. 31, when the election of officers will occur.

Thomas Moloney, a young man about 19 years of age, was run over and instantly killed at East Englewood about 6:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the suburban Chicago and Englewood train, known the United State as Pittsburg. It is not known exactly how the accident occurred, but it is supposed that he was boarding a moving train, and was run over by the Illinois Central train which left the city at 6:30 o'clock. The body was taken charge of by the Coroner's deputies, and the remains were conveyed to the station to take a train to Calumet County, where his parents reside.
